Before joining Torridon, Steve was a partner at Kirkland & Ellis LLP, where he focused on appellate litigation and critical motions practice for Fortune 500 companies. He frequently served as the legal-issues and brief-writing strategist on multi-million-dollar trial matters and has led briefing on numerous appeals before federal and state appellate courts. His commercial litigation experience encompasses a wide range of practice areas, including pharmaceutical products liability, trade secrets, securities fraud, campaign finance regulation, railroad and aviation litigation, and FOIA disputes.

Earlier in his career, Steve was an associate at Cooper & Kirk PLLC, where he developed legal strategy and authored briefs in complex constitutional law cases, securing en banc victories before the Ninth and Eleventh Circuits.

Steve's government service includes serving as a Bristow Fellow in the Office of the Solicitor General at the U.S. Department of Justice, assisting on matters pending before the Supreme Court.

In addition to his practice, Steve is a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Law at The Catholic University of America Columbus School of Law. He teaches and writes in the areas of administrative law, constitutional law, civil procedure, legislation, and evidence. He also serves as a Fellow at the law school's Center for the Constitution and the Catholic Intellectual Tradition and at its Separation of Powers Institute.
